SUBJECT { GENERAL - Visit of British Personalities to TPLINDO in Munich.

SPECIFIC
ACTION REQUIRED: None. For your information.

The Director of TPLINDO in Munich has advised his New York Headquarters by letter dated 23 May 1958, as follows:

"A couple of weeks ago we had the pleasure of showing our establishment here to visitors from England -- one was William McDonald, head of the Central European Service of the BBC, and the other was the well-known Sir Robert Bruce Lockhart. Both seemed extremely interested in our work, friendly, and eager to cooperate to whatever extent possible.

"Of particular interest was a comment from Sir Robert to Charlie Malamuth as part of a letter to Charlie thanking him for some materials he had received from us. I quote from his letter:

"I should also like to tell you how deeply impressed I was by my visit to TPLINDO. As far as I could judge from a short visit I think that it is the best set-up that I have seen anywhere."

"A comment like this from someone of his stature and background was most gratifying to us indeed."
